Over 9,000 Killed In Ecuador

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 8.—The death toll of last Friday's earthquake in Ecuador was estimated officially today at 9,241. Deaths in the town of Ambato alone were said to have reached 5,000.

Bodies are being recovered and buried as quick as possible, but conditions are such that there are fears of disease.

The shocker shattered a patch across 4,000 square miles, containing a population of 100,000. Rescue workers estimate that 70 percent of all buildings in the area had been flattened.

Ambato, a thriving industrial centre, was completely destroyed. Detailed death figures in the main centres were estimated by officials here today as follows: Ambato 5,000, Pelileo 3,000 and Patate 1,000. In the township of Pelileo, which was completely obliterated, only 500 of the 3,500 inhabitants survived.

More than 20,000 people in the earthquake area are said to have been injured, and the property damage is estimated at US$20,000,000.

PRESIDENT RETURNS

Senor Gale Plaza, the President of Ecuador, returned to the capital, Quito, today after directing rescue work on the spot. A Parliamentary Committee, which met last night there, decided to set up a Commission to arrange relief in the stricken areas.

Survivors from stricken Pelileo, arriving here today by the emergency air lift, said: "Pelileo had been submerged." Instead of the gay township where the famous Ecuador carpets were made, there was an immense lake, with only the spire of the principal church above the flood waters.—Reuter.

MERCY CALL

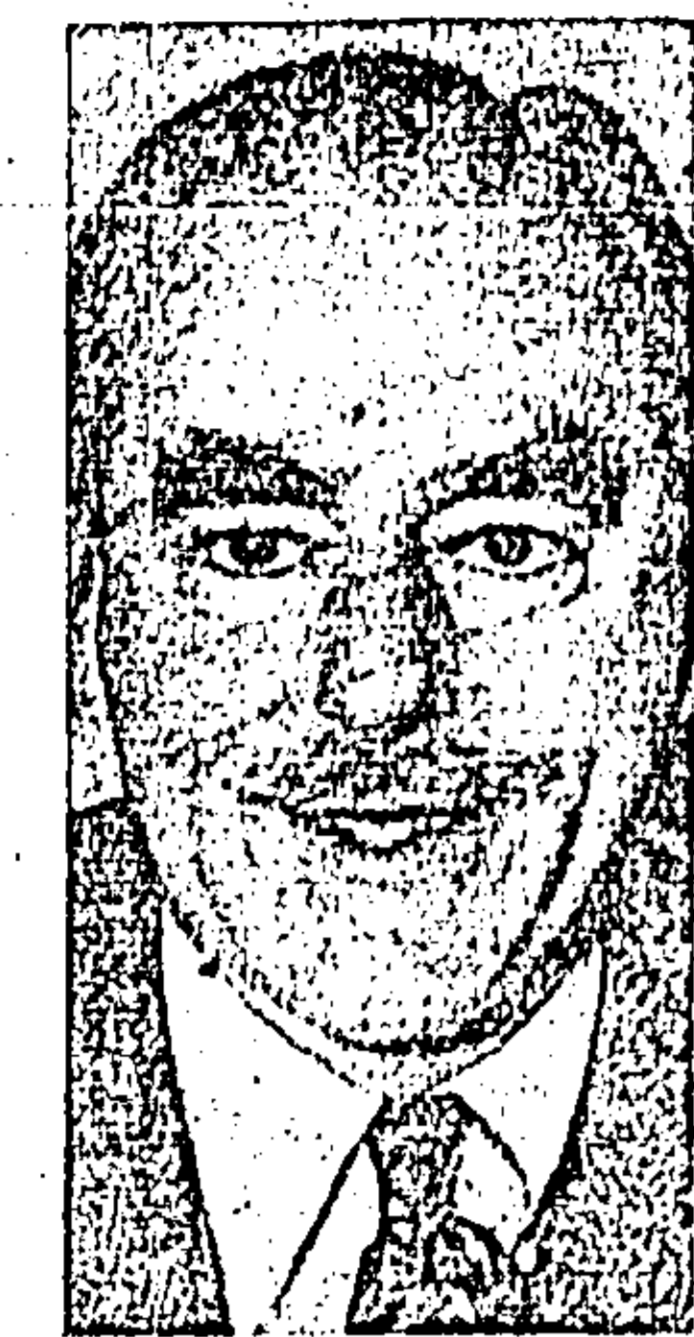

Quito, Aug. 8.—A call went out Monday to all United States air force and naval flight plans in the Panama area to join the "mercy flight," flying doctors and medical supplies to central Ecuador.

United States Caribbean Command headquarters alerted all freight planes in the Panama area to join the relief operations.—Associated Press.

EUROPE'S DEFENCES TERMED A "SOFT SHELL"

MR. DEAN ACHESON

Acheson Testifies On Arms Programme

Washington, Aug. 8.—The Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, said today that the United States was "open to attack" as never before because Western Europe's defences were a "soft shell" inviting Soviet aggression.

Therefore, Mr. Acheson told the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, Congress should approve the US$1,450,000,000 arms programme to build up Western Europe's defences.

Mr. Acheson said the Russian leaders had set their course against arrangements charted by the United Nations for the "preservation of world peace," and only immediate American military assistance to "free nations" could offset this threat.

"Prompt action is imperative," declared the Secretary of State. "The first line of defence in Europe is open to attack on its own territory to a greater extent than ever before."

He said the present military weaknesses in Europe "invite danger of war" in order of Congressional delays in ordering the arms programme would increase that danger.

Meanwhile, the Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, told the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees today that a small amount of American arms aid for the Far East would have "considerable possibilities of usefulness," but urged that it not be earmarked for China.

POLICY REVIEW

He said that pending results of the current top level review of the American policy toward the Nationalist Government of China, the Administration found it impossible to "programme or justify" arms aid for that country.

Senator William charged that America has been more generous since the end of the war to its former enemies—Italy and Japan—than to China.—United Press.

home to these men the wisdom of leading world co-operation and world peace."

BREAKDOWN

Mr. Acheson opened the Administration's big Senate drive for passage of the arms programme. He warned Congressmen that to restrict President Truman's powers too much would be dangerous and he wanted "no cut in the cost of the arms programme."

He broke down the programme, proposing $1,000,000,000 for North Atlantic treaty nations, including $150,000,000 to help them increase their military output, $211,370,000 for Greece and Turkey, $27,640,000 "to help strengthen the defence of certain other free nations exposed to danger," including Korea, Iran and the Philippines.

Mr. Acheson and Senator Arthur Vandenberg tangled in round one of the dispute over the size of the military programme.

Senator Vandenberg said the United States was rushing the arms programme before the Atlantic Pact nations' Council and defence committee could be established for the joint preparation of defence plans.

COMMON PLANS

Mr. Acheson replied that "steps were being taken" to hasten drafting of common defence plans.

Senator Vandenberg was not satisfied and suggested that the present programme be restricted to a point "sufficient to demonstrate the attitude" of the United States, with additional arms to be provided "four or five months hence" when Congress meets again.

"I would resist that," replied Mr. Acheson. "We must go forward on both these fronts (joint planning and U.S. aid) at the same time. Merely talking an attitude is not enough."

He then added: "I do not know of any other programme than this one which would be effective and useful at this time. A smaller programme defeats itself."

"With the state of the world as it exists today, I would not want to take the responsibility for delaying any of this material," said the Secretary.

CLUB IN CLOSET

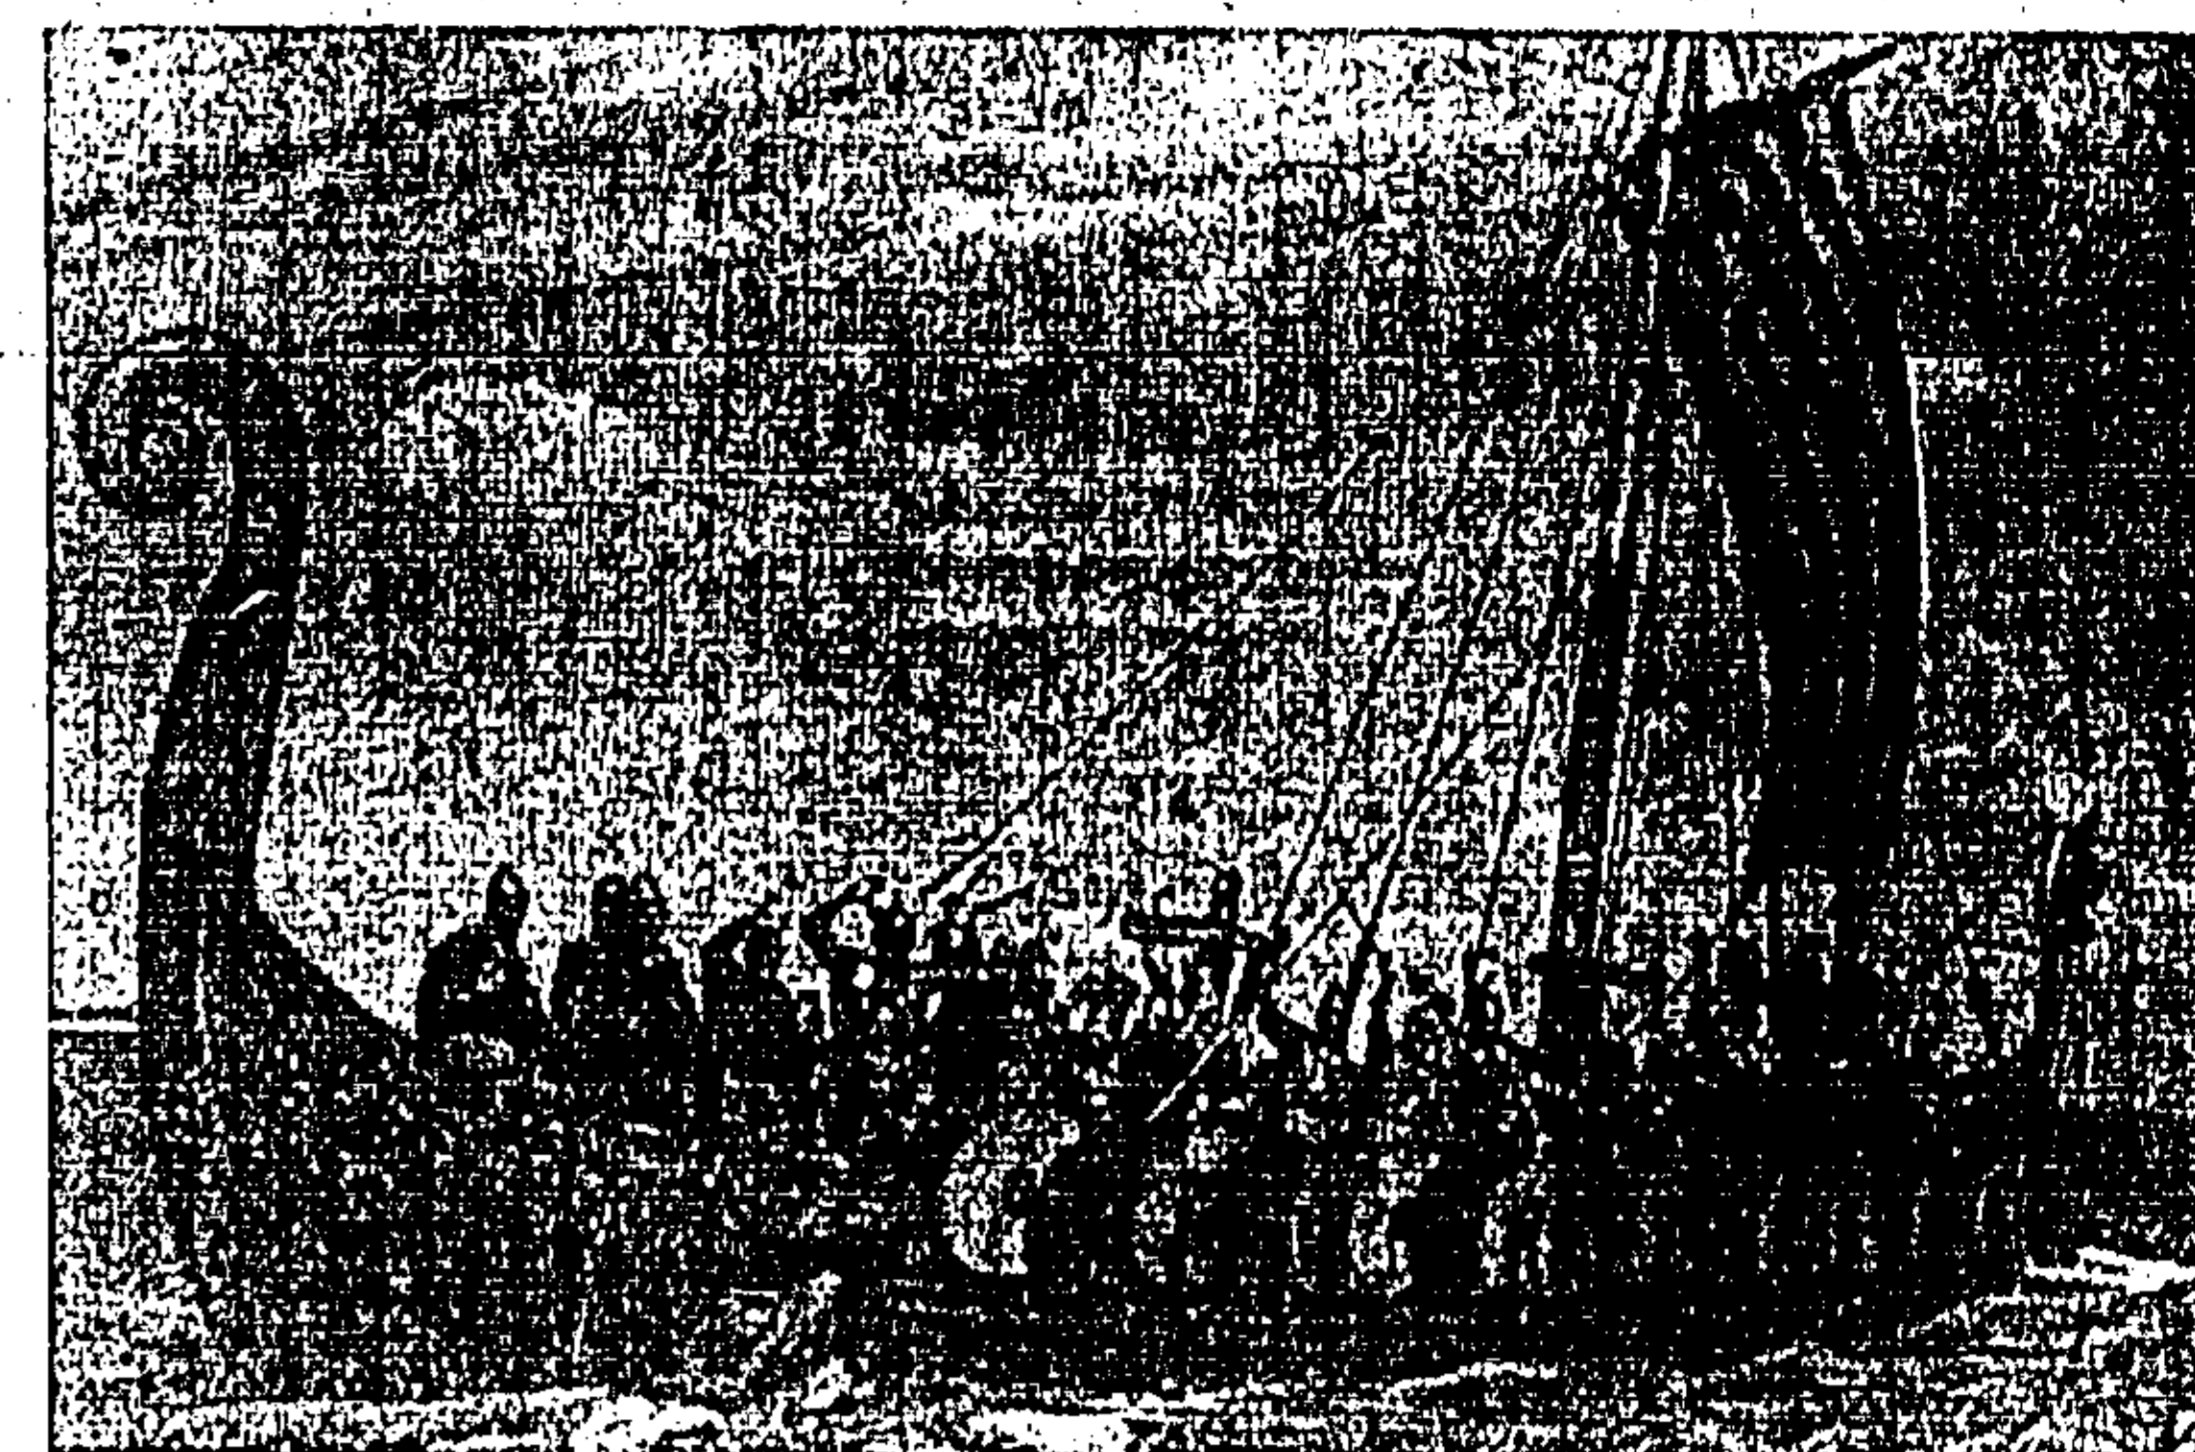

In a strongly-worded attack on the world drive of Communism, Mr. Acheson declared: "The record shows that no Communist government came to power in any country by the free choice of the people, openly expressed in honest election."

He then added: "I do not know of any other programme than this one which would be effective and useful at this time. A smaller programme defeats itself."

Mr. Acheson made it clear that what was sought was a

Council Of Europe Holds First Meeting

Strasbourg, Aug. 8.—The Council of Europe, the first experiment in creating an international Parliament, came into being here this afternoon when the Foreign Ministers of the 10 founder nations began their first "Cabinet" meeting.

FOREST FIRE STILL RAGING

Helena, Montana, Aug. 8.—The Northwest's worst fire in 40 years still remained out of control after devastating 6,000 acres and killing 13 fire-fighters in 96 hours.

The Ranger headquarters said the blaze might be brought under control this afternoon but A. D. Mohr, supervisor of Helena National Forest, warned that a strong breeze could wipe out all the last three days' work.

The Montana fire was roaring through 18,000 acres of forests and prairies in five northwestern states. Over 500 men had fought it along a 21-mile perimeter in the region so remote that supplies must be brought by boat, pack train, trucks and aeroplanes.

The Rangers placed the number of fire-fighters throughout the five-state area at more than 2,500 men. Some of the "smoke-rimed" men fighting the blaze had gone 72 hours without sleep. But they threw all their strength into stopping two blazes started by lightning north of the main one. They brought the new fires under control on Sunday night.

The Montana blaze killed 13 fire-fighters over the weekend. They were trapped by the shifting winds and perished in the flames. Twelve of them had parachuted into the virtually inaccessible Mann Gulch.—United Press.

NORWEGIAN PROTEST

Oslo, Aug. 8.—The Norwegian Government has protested to the Chinese Government against the arrest of two Norwegian pilots in Chinese waters, the Foreign Ministry announced here today.

The pilots were "later released." The Foreign Ministry said that they had refused to accept the Chinese Government's blockade of certain parts of China's east coast and the closing of some ports.—Reuter.

Earl Of Harwood's Wedding Date

London, Aug. 8.—The Earl of Harwood, nephew of King George VI, and his Austrian-born commoner fiancée Miss Marion Stein, will be married on September 29 in the Chapel Royal of historic St James Palace, it was reported today.—Associated Press.

They met in the beflagged City Hall of this mediaeval, battle-scarred city, as the Council's Committee of Ministers, which will guide the next month's discussions of the Consultative Council, main debating body of the Council.

As the statesmen climbed out of their cars to enter the magnificent eighteenth century City Hall in a broiling heat wave, Strasbourg manifested many signs of its realisation that the new experiment might make it a city of destiny.

The words "Europe" and "Unity" blazoned from huge posters and from every shop-window in this shell-pocked Rhineland city for many years. The flags of the 12 nations were strung across streets and from every prominent building.

EIGHT-POINT AGENDA

Inside the City Hall, originally seized from its aristocratic owner during the French Revolution, the Ministers sat round an egg-shaped arrangement of tables with interpreters in the hollow centre.

Each Minister had two advisers craning with him. It is not expected that there will be any violent demonstrations against the Council of Europe. Local Communist strength is not impressive, being confined chiefly to the organisations called "Liberators For Peace And Liberty," which has only a small membership.

The Committee of Ministers has an eight-point agenda to work through.

One of the eight points, the study of the report of the Preparatory Commission which has been meeting in Paris for several weeks, is itself divided into nine sub-points.

Questions the Committee must discuss in the two days before the Consultative Assembly meets include: creation of a secretariat, budget, staff, privileges and immunities, draft financial regulations, invitations to new members, the date of the Committee's next meeting, recommendations to the Assembly for the nomination to the office of Secretary-General and proposals to be made to the Assembly for its own agenda.

Under the heading of new members it remains to be seen what attitude the Ministers will take towards the timing of an invitation to Western Germany.—Reuter.

IRISH PARTITION

Belfast, Aug. 8.—The British delegation at the Council of Europe will oppose any move by Eire to raise the question of Irish partition, informed circles in Belfast said today.

The British Government's attitude is understood to be that the position of Northern Ireland is a domestic matter and has no relevance to the conference.—Reuter.

CLASH OF W. UNION LEADERS DENIED

London, Aug. 8.—General Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, French Commander-in-Chief of the Western Union land forces, said in a statement here tonight that "statements that Field Marshal Montgomery's idea was to withdraw the defence of Western Union outside the Continent are completely without foundation."

The statement was released by the Permanent Commission of the Western Union Powers following press reports that Field Marshal Montgomery, Chairman of the Western Union Commanders-in-Chief's Committee, had clashed with General De Lattre De Tassigny over a strategy in the event of a European conflict.

The Permanent Commission said that General De Lattre De Tassigny questioned about press reports concerning differences of opinion said to have come to light at Fontainebleau, Western Union Military Headquarters, had said:

"I can give no details about the work we do. But I wish to take this opportunity of telling you that statements implying that Field-Marshal Montgomery's idea is to withdraw the defence outside the Continent are completely without foundation."

"Of course, some varying conceptions have been brought to light, a thing which was quite natural, but it can definitely be stated that all the members of our Committee and its Chairman have always unanimously regarded their task as being the achievement of an effective defence of all the territories of the Brussels Pact nations."

The widely read London Sunday Express said in a front-page article by its military correspondent yesterday that Field Marshal Montgomery had had his "most serious clash" with General De Lattre De Tassigny and that "shrewd observers" thought that he could not carry on much longer as top military commander of the Western Union Powers.

The correspondent quoted reports that Field Marshal Montgomery "blinking perhaps of the possibility of another Dunkirk" was "reluctant to pledge Britain to put a big land force across the Channel should war break out.—Reuter.

EDITORIAL

The American White Paper

THE publication of the United States State Department's White Paper on China could not have been more badly timed for the Nationalists. It came in probably their most critical week since the fall of Shanghai when the treachery of Generals Chen Chien and Chen Mingyen made possible a bloodless occupation of Changsha by the Communists. The White Paper's strong indictment of the Nationalist Government dealt the Canton regime as serious a blow to their prestige as their big reverse in Hunan, and it undoubtedly gave the Chinese Communists a great propaganda victory. Whilst the State Department's criticism of the Nationalists' inefficiency, corruption and military blundering is to a large extent justified, the White Paper, by conscious omission or otherwise, fails to say that it was largely the events resulting from the Yalta Pact, of which the United States was the principal proponent, that prevented Chiang Kai-shek from unifying the country after the last war and rebuilding its economy. The Yalta Agreement made possible a renewed Russian penetration into Manchuria, and gave the Soviet Government a pre-eminent right to the port of Dalen and a naval base at Port Arthur. It afforded the Russians an opportunity to strip all Manchuria's heavy industries to the ground, and a chance to transfer large stocks of surrendered Japanese arms to the Chinese Communists. The State Department apparently sought to correct its past errors in policy by trying to bring the Nationalists and Communists together, little realising that the year or so of truce while mediation efforts went on gave the Communists that much time to increase their numbers and general military strength. It is interesting to compare the State Department's defence of its China policy and ex-Ambassador Patrick Hurley's comments on it. General Hurley calls the White Paper an alibi for the failure of United States policy in China, the primary responsibility for which he lays at the door of the State Department. All this does not excuse the weaknesses and mistakes of the Nationalist Government, but the United States' policy bungling certainly did not improve their position. The demoralisation of the Nationalists, administratively and militarily, stemmed largely from loss of the rich Manchurian economy. The White Paper is important, however, for one thing—the U.S. State Department now realises the nature and character of the Chinese Communist Party. Whether realisation at a much earlier date that they were part of the Communist international movement directed from the Kremlin, and not mere politically innocuous "agrarian reformers," would have altered American policy very materially is idle to speculate upon. The United States now is committed to resist their encroachment beyond China's borders.

Russians Want UN To Clear Out Of Palestine

Lake Success, Aug. 8.—Russia today asked the United Nations to get out of Palestine and leave settlement of the Holy Land to Israel and her Arab neighbours.

The Soviet delegate, Mr. Semyon Tsarapkin, suggested that the Security Council withdraw teams of observers from the Near East and dissolve its Palestine Conciliation Commission.

The Russian spokesman made no mention of the UN embargo on arms to the Holy Land which the acting Palestine mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, suggested last week should be replaced by a "moral embargo" among arms-exporting powers, who would agree not to send more fighting equipment to Israel or the Arab states than they needed for their internal defence.

"There are no longer any military operations in Palestine," continued Mr. Tsarapkin. "This being the case, there obviously is no need for United Nations observers to be on the spot, and the Soviet delegation feels these United Nations observers must be recalled and their functions dissolved. Any further activity for final regulation of the Palestine conflict and all problems which have arisen should be left to the initiative and best judgment of the parties themselves and there is no need for a Conciliation Commission or for observers."

Mr. Tsarapkin offered several amendments to the resolution submitted by Canada and France which would have continued observers and the Conciliation Commission but dismissed Dr. Bunche as acting mediator.

BUNCHE OBJECTS

Dr. Bunche pointed out to the Council today that recall of UN observers from Palestine "will have very serious effects upon the armistice agreements."

"Observers must be kept on the spot until a final peace settlement or until the parties themselves agree to changes in armistice agreements which would make observers no longer necessary."

The Council, adjourned discussion of the Palestine question until Thursday after hearing statements from the Egyptian, Israeli and Syrian delegates supporting Dr. Bunche's position on withdrawing observers from the Holy Land.—United Press.

Know Your Q Fever Symptoms

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WONDERFUL as it is, penicillin won't do everything. There are certain germs—and hence certain diseases—against which it is powerless. For this reason, biologists are constant on the hunt for new antibiotics which can be used where penicillin fails. Antibiotics are substances which stop the growth of germs.

One of the newest to be added to our growing list is aureomycin. It has been tried out in a number of diseases against which antibiotics have not helped in any significant degree. One of these is Q fever.

Loss Of Appetite

In this disorder there is a loss of appetite and weakness. In addition to an elevated temperature. The disorder may be contracted from the use of unpasteurized milk. In some areas of the United States, widespread epidemics have occurred during recent years.

Most of the patients treated with aureomycin were over 25 years of age and the majority were over 30. All had been ill for four days or longer. In practically all instances, the temperature had risen to 104°.

A few of the patients were treated by giving them injections of the aureomycin into a muscle. Two of these showed prompt improvement with the return of the temperature to normal within three days. Three other patients improved but not to as great an extent, while one patient was not benefited.

Treatment

This method of administering aureomycin was not considered as effective as when it was given by mouth. This was the method used in the majority of those treated. In this group every patient showed improvement within 48 hours by the return of appetite and a great drop in the temperature. In some instances, the use of the drug was stopped 24 hours after the temperature became normal. In most cases, the patients had a normal convalescence. However, in two instances, after the drug was stopped, the fever recurred, so that further administration of the aureomycin was necessary.

In five patients, the Q fever had been present for periods varying from 23 to 77 days. While being treated with aureomycin, four of these patients improved promptly, while the fifth was not helped.

Aureomycin does not seem to cause reactions of any particular note. Occasionally, there is a feeling of fullness in the stomach, with sickness at the stomach, and vomiting. Now and then there may be an itching rash.

These studies on aureomycin would seem to indicate that it is effective in Q fever. Since this disorder is becoming much more common, it is fortunate that such treatment is available.

Household Hints

If your pillows need washing, laundry services say, they will come out nice and fluffy. The feathers are not removed from the cases. If your pillows are flattened from long usage, however, it may be worthwhile to have them professionally renovated and more feathers added if necessary.

When you are buying Turkish towels, try to remember to check whether the surface loops and the underweave are both firm. The surface loops do the drying, you know, while the underweave does the wearing.

Trimming Tricks On Bed Jackets

BATISTE, dotted swiss, and nylon tricot are sharing equal honour in current summer bed jacket fashions. Blue is said to be "twice as good" as pink.

Distinctive trimmings are noted on each style, leading its field. For example, floating panels form a "composite" effect as collar for a batiste bed jacket; val lace, which outlines the entire jacket, frames the embroidered and tucked front panel. Embroidered nylon sheer is treated like Alençon lace in its sculptured application to the front panel, as collar and flowing cuffs on a nylon tricot star.

Shirring on Sheer

Self-shirred bandings retain the cool look of another nylon tricot bed jacket—15-denier with diamond pattern. This one is youthfully styled with club collar and twin rows of shirring at the shoulders.

Val lace is highlighted both in a dotted swiss and in a multi-strand crepe. The latter has double rows of the lace around the piped neckline and three-quarter sleeves, lace down the front. Val lace forms a bib and wall-of-Troy yoke, in addition to accentuating fold-back collar and cuff wrists on the dotted swiss.

Big fabric tie and wide collar top a tailored bed jacket in scalloped edgings.

Smart & Trim Fashions For Sportswear

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE SUITABLE costume for active sportswear should combine the practical with the trim and pretty, as does this number (on the left). The skirt of gray denim has two patch pockets placed diagonally across the front, and it has a zippered closing in back. Worn with it is a washable cotton knit sweater with a plain high V-neck, with a bright handkerchief to add a colourful note. A peaked cap of the gray denim offers good sun protection.

THE RIGHT apparel has a great deal to do with enjoyment of games. Next, smart lines, with carefully controlled detail to insure freedom of motion are important. To score on the golf course here is a skirt (shown on the right) that has everything. It has a heat fly front closing, a pocket that slips over the belt and buttons on. It is gored for fullness and sports tee cart-ridges at the hip. Worn with it is a washable cotton blouse cut on easy classic lines.

Dali Designs On Fabrics Available For Homes

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK. Salvador Dali on canvas isn't news. But Dali designs on cotton fabrics to hang at the living room windows or to cover the divan are truly new and different.

The modern painter was one of six people chosen from the fields of art, architecture and industrial design to create a new line of printed fabrics called "Stimulus." The five men and one woman chosen were given a free rein to create any design they thought would look well in homes.

Surprising enough, the collection is conservative both in colour and design. None of the designers knew what the other had in mind until the job was completed, yet delicate patterns and soft colours for number bold, splashy designs.

Others in the group were Ray Ennis, sculptor; George Nelson, architect-designer; Bernard Rudofsky, editor-designer; Abel Sorensen, architect-designer; and Edward J. Wormley, furniture designer.

"Leaf Hands"

Dali's most startling pattern is his classic horse and rider in a circular circle on a solid ground. He used slashes of black to add vivid touches more often than the other designers, but even Dali included two delicate patterns which would fit into a living room.

One is his "Leaf Hands"—a graceful pattern of a woman's hands with leaf veins and polished nails. Another is a pattern of harlequin streamers and confetti in gay, fresh colours done on a natural background.

All the "Stimulus" fabrics are cotton or cotton and rayon. Eighteen of the original 32 will be available in most cities this autumn. In each case, the designer's signature is put along the selvage edge of each yard. If the guests don't believe Salvador Dali designed the new silencers, you can just rip a seam and prove it.

Rudofsky, who has spent more time at a typewriter than a drawing board, did the logical thing when he was asked to design some drapery fabrics. He sat down at his typewriter.

Theory Proved

The result is three different patterns, "Parentheses," "Zeros" and "Fractions." The latter is made up with black type on a turkey red background or black type on ochre yellow. The designs effectively prove a theory of Rudofsky's.

"I don't believe you have to go to museums to get inspiration for design," he said. "I think you can work with the things that surround you all the time and create interesting and different patterns."

Sorensen, handsome young United Nations architect, favours all-over patterns in draperies.

"The walls of a room shouldn't be broken up by a startling big design on the draperies," he said. "A wall should be a continuing thing, and the draperies should harmonize with the general effect."

KITCHEN AFFECTS HEALTH

By ELEANOR ROSS

TO guard the health and comfort of your family going over from time to time, and do it as rigorously as would a Board of Health inspector.

If you have ever watched one of these health sleuths at work, then you have an idea of the complete job he performs when inspecting a restaurant or food shop. He knows that porous linoleum is an ideal place for bacteria to collect and breed. He examines carefully the crevices between floor and cabinets. If there are any crevices, these are filled with plaster.

After a thorough cleaning, wax linoleum well and make sure it is kept that way the year round, to prevent bacteria from settling. Special pains must be taken to see that there are no cracks or crevices on working surfaces. All removable work on boards, shelves and drawers should be taken out from time to time, and thoroughly scrubbed.

Chipped Utensils

Don't hoard chipped utensils. Throw out chipped pots and pans, for germs just love to nestle in these. See to it that no pot or pan or cooking utensil of any kind is put away until it is thoroughly clean. All washable pots and pans should be scoured with steel wool. Cate should be taken to see that these are thoroughly rinsed so splinters of wool will not remain to find their way into food.

Slicers, mixers and other such kitchen appliances should be taken apart and cleaned frequently.

If you can, train yourself to do without dish towels. Any health officials insist that these are germ carriers and highly unsanitary. It is much more efficient and much more sanitary to spray dishes with hot water and let them drain.

Walls and woodwork should be gone over from time to time. Wash thoroughly to remove grease and smoke. Wax lightly the wall next to the stove so that grease will not cling. Do a thorough job of periodic refrigerator cleaning. Remove all contents, take out trays and clean with a borax solution. A solution of vinegar will remove mould. Keep ice cube trays clean.

Kitchen fans and ventilators are wonderful but they collect grease and dirt. The law requires restaurants to dismantle and clean them several times a year, so how about cleaning them as often as possible?

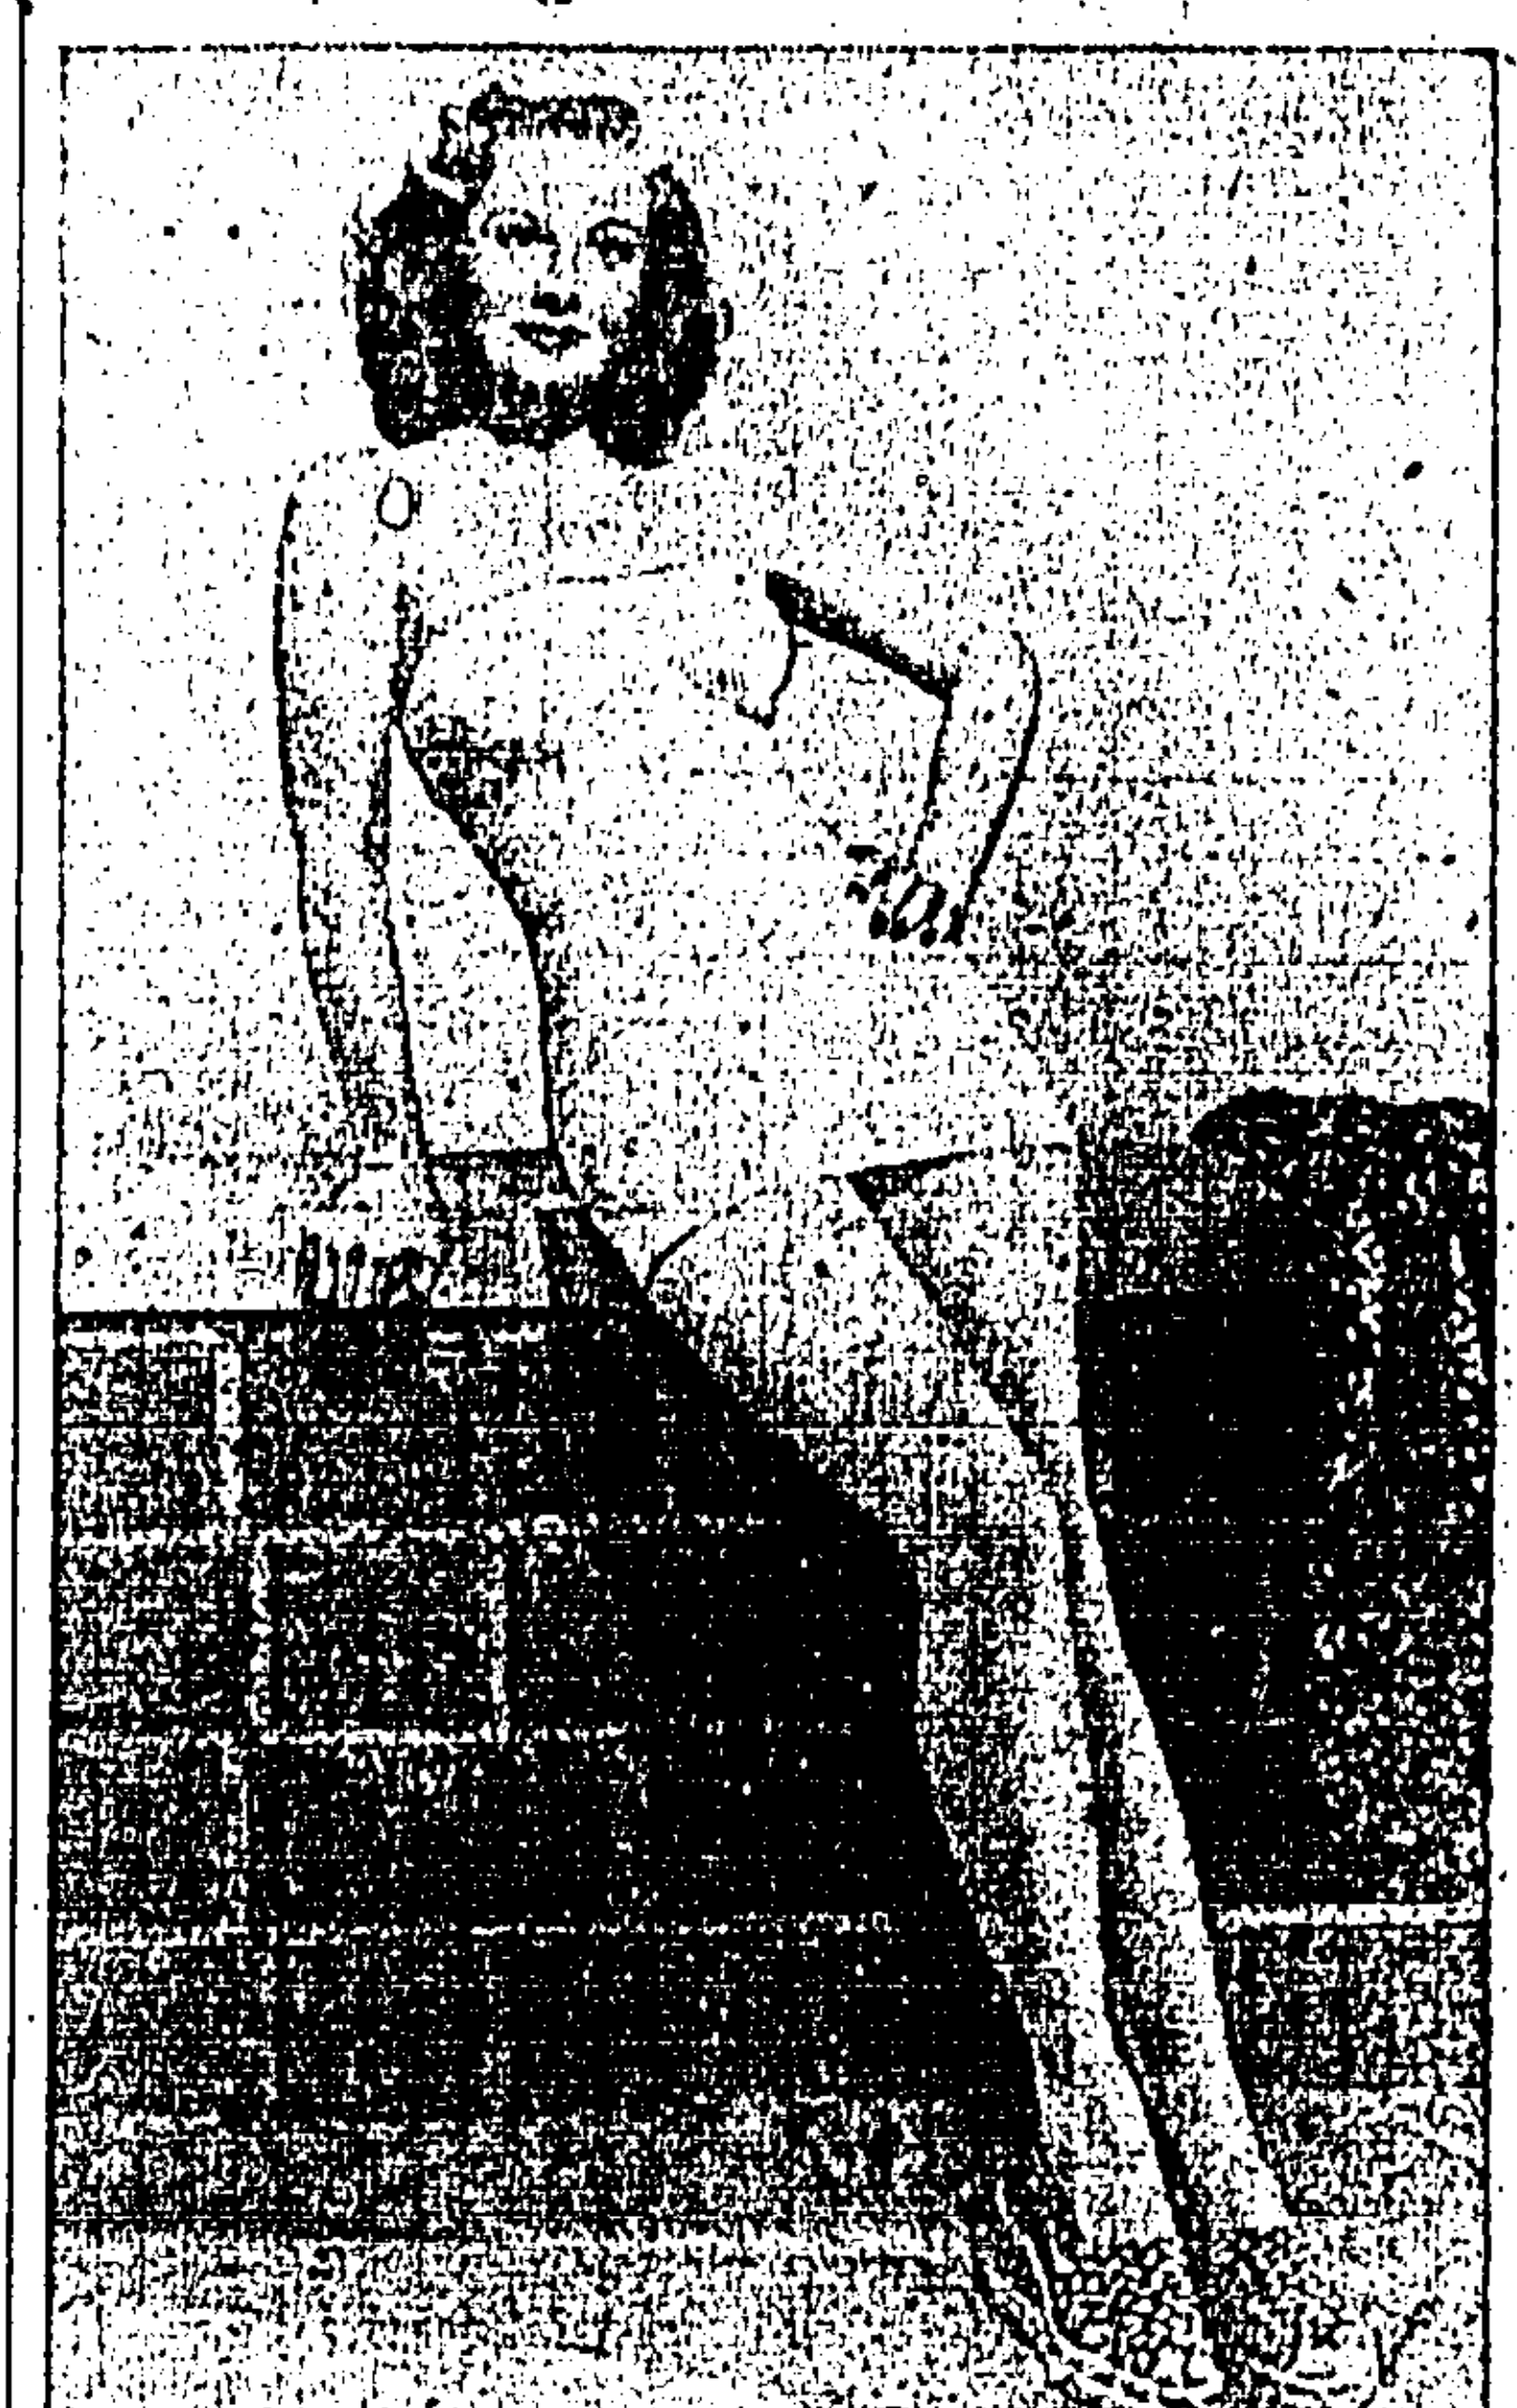

Famous Old Nursery In Second Century

WESTFIELD, Mass. One of the nation's oldest nurseries is starting its second century of plant, shrub and tree raising.

Shipments from the Adams Nursery, Inc., acres go to every state in the nation and to several foreign countries. In its first 100 years the nursery has steadily expanded and thrice shifted its location.

Its founder, John Adams, started with a modest nursery at Portland, Maine, during the "gold rush" of 1849. Just 18 years later the nursery was moved to Springfield and finally in 1912 to its present location, a 200-acre property in the community.

Beauty Begins With Posture

Poor posture is always to be avoided but particularly when you wear a bathing suit, says Movie Star Virginia Mayo, who looks trim, neat in hers.

By HELEN FOLLETT

BEAUTY of the feminine figure begins with posture. Posture, in fact, is pretty much of the whole story. A woman can be overweight, but if she has the light step, carries herself like a queen she is in the good looks picture, and a well fitted foundation garment will help.

Graceful carriage is much more important than many young women realise. Without it there cannot be pleasing outlines of figure or what we know as style. It is also necessary for health, as good posture makes for strong muscles to hold the inner organs in place. If the chest sags, the abdomen protrudes and the head is thrown forward, the lowest neck ever cut will be nothing but so much dry goods.

Women spend wealth on cosmetics, sessions at the beauty shop, pretty frocks and bonnets and that's all right. But to create a smart figure they need to spend nothing more than time and thought. Poor posture is the commonest of all good looks griefs, and one of the most unbecoming ones.

A girl or woman should look as if she were on her toes, fully alive, raring to go. To be able to do that she must keep the spinal column fully extended, the head balanced, hips tucked back and under, tummy flat as a pancake.

Erect carriage makes a woman look younger and pounds less than when she slumps. The slouchy attitude is the attitude of discontent, cowardice, lack of ambition.

Give yourself a test. Stand against the wall, shoulders, buttocks, heels touching the wall. The legs should be straight but not rigid with the weight resting on the balls of the foot. Lift the chest, pull in your tummy, let shoulders and arms be at ease.

Keeping that pose, walk away from the wall. Don't let your knees buckle. Keep on walking. Sink into a chair, still retain the erect attitude. Do that for five minutes every day if you fancy your posture is not all that it should be.

MADEME is expecting some guests?" Inquired the Chef. "Then how would you like to have a little sunset dinner on the terrace?"

"Sounds delightful. What would you suggest?"

"How would you like a pressed veal loaf with hard-cooked eggs moulded in the centre French style? With that you could have vegetables and a tossed green salad."

"Let's start dinner with the salad. Then the pressed veal loaf, with a garnish of sliced tomatoes and some potato chips. Be sure to reheat these, so they will be crisp."

"Then I'd like one hot dish. This is really a must with a cold dinner. Otherwise digestion is slowed up because the stomach gets over-chilled. Green bean and fresh corn succotash would be good, and as dinner will be outdoors, let's serve it very hot in small covered casseroles."

"And, Madame, early in the morning I will make a nice large banana layer cake, with banana-butter frosting, and put it in the refrigerator so the frosting will be firm. It is a rich, moist cake, and will not dry out if it stands. I think this cake is especially good with iced tea."

"That will be a very nice dinner, Chef. You'll have to stand by to take a bow."

of the most unbecoming ones. A girl or woman should look as if she were on her toes, fully alive, raring to go. To be able to do that she must keep the spinal column fully extended, the head balanced, hips tucked back and under, tummy flat as a pancake.

Erect carriage makes a woman look younger and pounds less than when she slumps. The slouchy attitude is the attitude of discontent, cowardice, lack of ambition.

Give yourself a test. Stand against the wall, shoulders, buttocks, heels touching the wall. The legs should be straight but not rigid with the weight resting on the balls of the foot. Lift the chest, pull in your tummy, let shoulders and arms be at ease.

Keeping that pose, walk away from the wall. Don't let your knees buckle. Keep on walking. Sink into a chair, still retain the erect attitude. Do that for five minutes every day if you fancy your posture is not all that it should be.

Let's Eat BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN Meal On The Terrace

MADEME is expecting some guests?" Inquired the Chef. "Then how would you like to have a little sunset dinner on the terrace?"

"Sounds delightful. What would you suggest?"

"How would you like a pressed veal loaf with hard-cooked eggs moulded in the centre French style? With that you could have vegetables and a tossed green salad."

"Let's start dinner with the salad. Then the pressed veal loaf, with a garnish of sliced tomatoes and some potato chips. Be sure to reheat these, so they will be crisp."

"Then I'd like one hot dish. This is really a must with a cold dinner. Otherwise digestion is slowed up because the stomach gets over-chilled. Green bean and fresh corn succotash would be good, and as dinner will be outdoors, let's serve it very hot in small covered casseroles."

"And, Madame, early in the morning I will make a nice large banana layer cake, with banana-butter frosting, and put it in the refrigerator so the frosting will be firm. It is a rich, moist cake, and will not dry out if it stands. I think this cake is especially good with iced tea."

"That will be a very nice dinner, Chef. You'll have to stand by to take a bow."

HOW THEY FARE ON THE CONTINENT

There is a spirit of fight and hope in Europe, says

JOAN HARRISON

AS the bus from the airport shot us with incredible speed through the outskirts into the centre of Rome, it came to a momentary halt in front of a floodlit fountain.

The water gleamed and sparkled and sprayed over the crowds taking an after-dinner stroll.

Fountains play

"There is Italy for you," said a voice behind me. "This city is suffering from a water shortage, but the fountains play just the same. The Italians would rather have it that way."

* AMID THE light, colour, and movement of the Rome streets my mind shot back to the night before when, at midnight, I strolled along a street in Bonn, Germany, where floodlights were playing on a half-finished building illuminating a gang of workmen going ahead at full speed on a night shift to get their new Government building finished as quickly as possible.

The week before I had stood on the fourteenth floor of a skyscraper in Brussels listening to a Belgian economist say:

"Every man wants certain things out of life. Here in Belgium we believe that he should have them. We do not believe in organising shortages, but in getting rid of them. And to do that a man must be free to eat as he likes and play as he likes."

Driving power

This same human element is the driving power behind the Marshall plan statistics—the free economy of the monetary plan—the understanding of people's needs and what makes them tick over.

* IN JUST over a fortnight I have flown in a circle over Europe, from France to Belgium, Holland, Germany, and Italy.

In all these countries, cars ravaged by war, there is a spirit of light and hope—even in Germany.

People are eating well, and can buy almost anything they like, but the cost of living is high.

Many of the lower income groups are finding it hard to "arrive," as the French say.

* BUT A large majority are finding their own way out—the head of the family works at two jobs instead of one, working a 14 or 15-hour day—but with a good meal at the end of it.

Or his wife goes out to work to make a dual income.

In Rome I met Colombo Genchi, a civil servant, married, with a 12-year-old daughter. His salary is 34,000 lire a month.

(about £17). Mrs. Genchi spends £15 10s. a month on food, and they pay a pre-war rental of £1 17s. 6d. a month.

For three years Mr. Genchi, to balance his budget, has worked at night translating articles. This brings him in another 12,000 lire (£6) a month.

Out of this he has to pay tax, heating for the winter, and clothe his family.

Genchi, a Communist, admits that prices have stabilised since 1947 and in the past two years have dropped to a reasonable level; that he is living well, and better than he did in 1945.

* HERE IS the story of Jean de Beauchamp and his English wife living just outside Brussels.

Worked at night

Three-and-a-half years ago Jean was demobilised from the RAF. At 23 he had a young wife to support, and a baby son.

He went to work for a firm making farm machinery and aluminium household equipment.

Working in a factory during the day for 18 months he spent three hours every evening five days a week at a night school taking an engineering course.

He and his wife had a small studio on the seventh floor of a Brussels apartment house.

There was no running water and money was rather tight. But they worked hard building a home piece by piece and ate well.

When the baby was a year old, Dorothy, his wife, took a part-time job and his mother looked after the baby during the day.

A better job

With the knowledge gained at night school he was able to get a better job with an agency selling machinery.

Just over a year ago they were able to rent an old farmhouse near Brussels for £6 a month, an average rental for an unfurnished house or apartment in Belgium.

Jean is acting as sole agent for an English firm of farm machinery manufacturers and has been able to buy a small lorry.

Most of their success was due to hard work, but they had been living in a country where they had always been well fed, where the buying of furniture

During the past three months butter, sugar, and cheese, cigarettes, and sweets have come on free sale, with prices rising slightly.

The average Dutch family is finding butter expensive at 4s. a pound.

The meat ration is about 1½ lb. a head per week, and costs about 4s. 6d. a pound.

* GERMANY'S EXPORTS are paying for half of what it costs to run the country.

The other half is being paid, nine-tenths by American dollars, and the other one-tenth by Britain.

The upkeep of Germany is still costing a million dollars (£250,000) a day.

German building gangs are working on day and night shifts, but the buildings going up are mostly official buildings and shops. Houses still lag behind.

Best meal

For 10s. in France you can now get a better meal than anywhere else in Europe.

That same 10s. would buy a meal for three if you bought it in the markets and cooked it at home.

You can buy a good steak, enough for one person, for 10d.

* IN THE markets tomatoes were selling at 4½d. a lb., peaches from the South of France at 1s. a lb., a large knuckle of boiling ham cost 5s., French beans were 9d. a lb., a pot of fresh cream 1s., and butter was from about 2s. 6d. a lb. upwards.

I found at the end of my tour of Belgium, Holland, Germany, and Italy that my 1,000 francs (£11) in France would go a lot further than its equivalent of 170 Belgian francs, 10 Dutch guilders, 13 German marks, or 2,000 Italian lire.

(London Express Service)

A day's menu

They also pay a rental of £2 5s. a month for a washing machine (American import).

Here is a typical day's menu of the Schaef household:

BREAKFAST: Coffee, rolls, butter, and jam.

LUNCH: Tomatoes stuffed with shrimps in mayonnaise, pound of beefsteak at 6s. a pound and about two pounds of fried potatoes, salad and a sweet—more often than not a cream made with eggs and milk served with fresh cream.

For their evening meal they were having, the day I saw them, tomato soup, roast veal and potatoes, a cooked salad in a white cream sauce, and rice tart.

* THE AVERAGE family in Amsterdam eats well, but is more concerned in finding somewhere to live.

A heavy toll

Bomb damage and flooding took a heavy toll of flats and houses in Holland, particularly in the big cities. There are two or three families to a house.

The Dutch Government has a system of subsidies whereby a family can build a house, the mortgage being held by the Government, repayable at a low rate of interest.

This scheme gives priority to people bombed-out with large families.

But a family without priority may buy or rent a houseboat.

All over the 40 canals encircling Amsterdam they can be seen, small and compact, with two living-rooms, bathroom, kitchen, and running hot water.

* THE DUTCH Government aims to have all food off ration by the end of the year.

300,000 follow the man with a 'Musso Look'

ROME. IN the open-air terrace restaurant in the centre of Rome the guitar-singer had been strumming Neapolitan songs for American tourists.

From one corner an Italian woman with a deadpan face and off-the-shoulder dress tossed a 10,000-lire (£5) note to him to play a Fascist march.

He obliged until a rather embarrassed restaurant manager, his eyes on the American tourists who might take offence, signalled to him to stop.

Few people in Italy have five-pound notes to throw around. But many can, and do, join the new Italian National Socialist Movement, which boasts of a signed party membership of 300,000.

Its probable strength is a million people grouped around the personality of yet another new "leader." This time it is 36-year-old Giorgio Almirante.

Old Type

TWO years ago, Almirante was an unknown journalist who had once worked for Mussolini's Ministry of Propaganda.

He was in Milan in 1945, and after the death of Mussolini he hid out for two years working as a labourer.

When he judged it safe, he came back to Rome, and was subsequently banished to a camp for circulating alleged Fascist propaganda. Released in 1947, he started the now flourishing Movimento Sociale Italiano with five people.

On first acquaintance, Almirante is not a very inspiring personality. He is a slim man of middle height, with thinning black hair, rather bright blue eyes, and a high-pitched voice which can rise to a shrill bellow.

People had told me that he resembled the young Mussolini, but I could not see it. His followers, filled with nostalgia for what they refer to as "Italy's past glory," see him through a haze of sentiment and easily aroused political emotion.

The Italian Government, accustomed to such movements, is adopting a let-well-alone policy. It lets the party members do more or less what they like unless the Fascist propaganda is too open.

Fertile Soil

IN spite of an appearance of prosperity in Italy, there is some fertile soil for new parties. There are, for example, two million unemployed, and a large percentage of disgruntled Communists here are looking for a new object of political devotion.

The Pope's edict announcing excommunication of Catholic Communists from the Church might act as a flip-side to the M.S.I. in its Italy-for-the-Italians policy.

"When I started the party in 1947," Almirante told me, "it was simply a question of pinning up a notice in a newspaper office. Supporters grew, and I then got the permission of the Ministry of the Interior to form a new political party.

"Our aim is to resurrect past Italian glory and to give young people a purpose in life. We are not out to cause civil war in Italy, but we will fight the Communists if they attack us."

At a party rally two weeks ago thousands of supporters rolled up to listen to Almirante.

His main and most popular lines are a demand for the return of Italy's former colonies and an explanation that Italy's defeat in war was just "bad luck" at one stage in the battle.

Almirante and his followers still regard Germany as an ally and Russia and America as enemies of Italy.

In the lobby of the Italian House of Commons, where Almirante is now an MP for a Rome suburb, there is little support for his utterances.

He is as yet just another 'ciao' in an Italy trying to forget.

C.V.R. Thompson Reports The American Scene

NEW YORK. TWO Congress men are to move for an inquiry into the $250 Library of Congress award for the best American poetry in 1948.

It was given to 63-year-old Ezra Pound last February. From Italy, Pound broadcast as Mussolini's Haw-haw during the war.

He escaped a treason trial by being adjudged insane. For the past three years he has been in a Washington mental home.

His winning poem, "Pisan Cantos," begun in Gaul and finished in the mental home, contains what seems to be a dirge for Mussolini and his mistress, Clara Petacci.

"The enormous tragedy of the dream. In the peasant's bent shoulders, Manes! Manes! was tanned and stuffed. Thus Ben and La Clara at Milano."

For months poets and writers have wrangled over whether it is poetry, and if so whether Pound should have been given the prize.

ME, TOO, has come to Britain. Says the New York World Telegram, meaning that the Tory platform is too much like that of the Socialists. Some Americans believe Republican (Tory) Tom Dewey lost last year's Presidential election by standing on a platform too much like Truman's.

NOT A STAR, but the man who makes stars, signed a new contract today. He is Hollywood's highest-paid worker, Louis B. Mayer. Last year his pay packet held $185,250.

AMBITION to be the first Senator of Jewish faith ever elected to Congress will lead Herbert Lehman, ex-

Governor of New York and ex-husband of UNRRA, to seek New York's vacant seat in an autumn by-election.

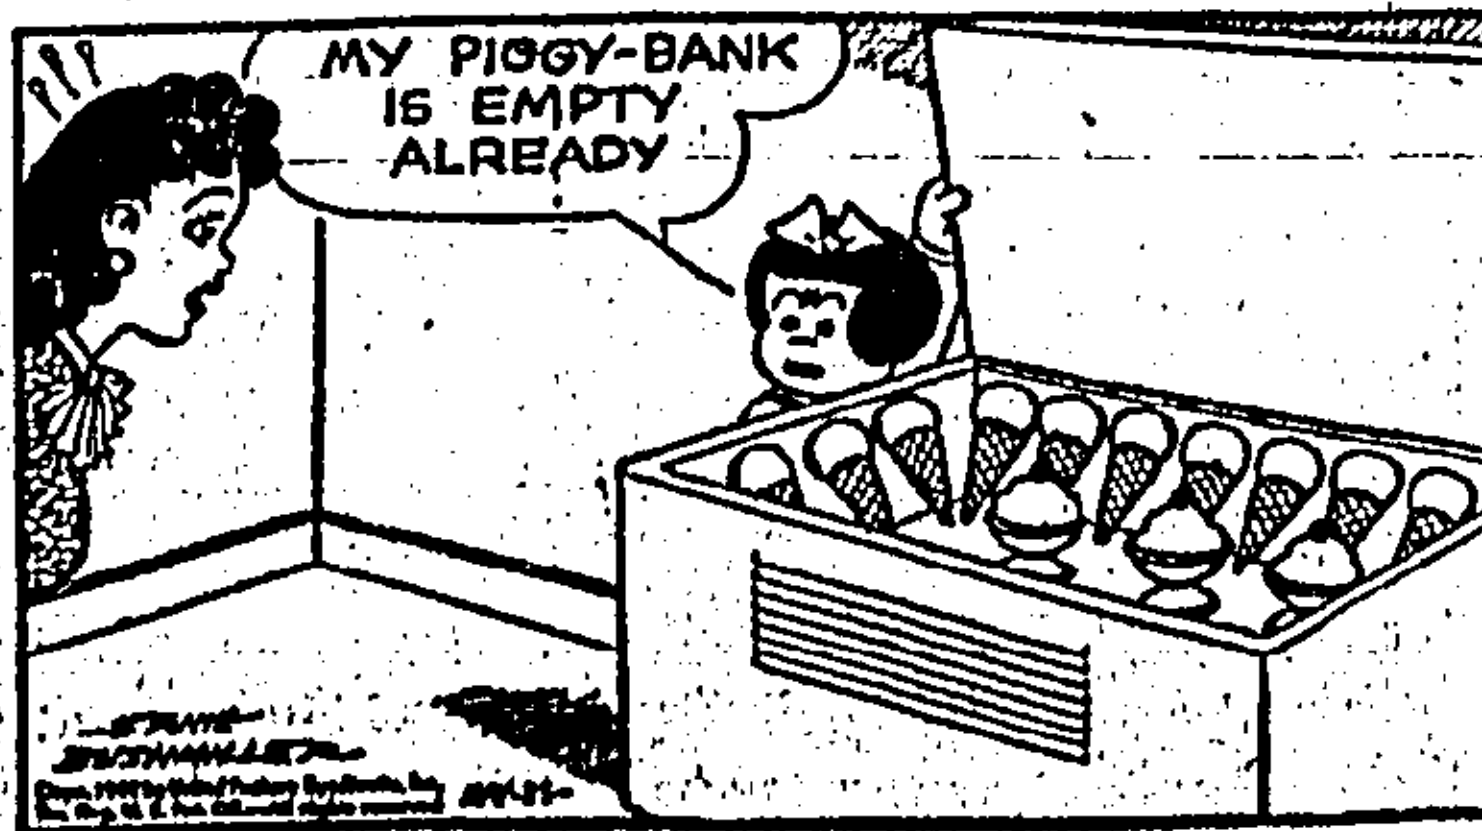

CAMERA TRICKS will give Danny Kaye three heads in a new picture. Each head will sing a different song. But the trio will sing in harmony.

SLUMP OR NOT, Americans are on the move. Car dealers and petrol stations were the only two major kinds of retail business to increase sales in June.

ANGERED by rent control, landlord J. F. Bailey shot and killed tenant Bill Hayes, wounded Hayes' wife, and committed suicide. The Rent Control Office refused to allow him to turn out the Hayes family. Bailey left a note: "This is not a free country any more. Joe Stalin might as well take over." A few hours after the shooting, a court ruled US rent control to be illegal.

COUNTY CRICKET

MIDDLESEX COME NEAR TO BEING ROUTED

Fighting Innings By Denis Compton

London, Aug. 8.—A great fighting innings by Denis Compton today saved Middlesex from being routed by Surrey, but in spite of his fine effort the County Championship leaders finished the day in a very difficult position.

Replying to Surrey's 144, Middlesex lost three wickets for 17 runs. Compton came to the rescue with a dour innings of 86 not out in three hours and ten minutes, including nine fours, and with Jim Sims added 33 for the eighth wicket, following with a ninth wicket stand of 64 with Jack Young.

W. Surridge, Surrey's fast medium bowler, claimed six for 49 and Eric Bedser took two wickets for two runs.

Although Middlesex finished 269 runs in arrears, Surrey's captain did not enforce the follow on.

Worcestershire, second in the table, 12 points behind Middlesex, narrowly lost first innings points against Hampshire. Six of their wickets fell for 115, but the fallers brought the score to within 19 of Hampshire's total.

A great double century by Len Hutton enabled Yorkshire to take first innings points against Northamptonshire. With masterly timing and copybook strokes, he got 221, undisturbed out of 391, including 26 fours.

GLAMORGAN LOSE

Week-end rain made pitches difficult in several places, and among the victims were the County Champions, Glamorgan, who lost by ten wickets to Somerset. Hazell and Lawrence took full advantage of the help afforded by the pitch to register match analyses of eight for 82 and nine for 108, respectively.

Len Muncie defended stoutly for Glamorgan, following his 21 not out in the first innings with a valuable 69.

CLOSE OF PLAY SCORES

At Hastings: Kent 462 for 5 declared; Sussex 230 and 42 for none.

Woodcock May Retire

Doncaster, Aug. 8.—Bruce Woodcock, Britain's heavyweight boxing champion, surprised the boxing world today when he said in hospital that he was seriously thinking of giving up boxing.

Interviewed in hospital where he is receiving treatment following last week's mauling mishap, Woodcock told a Press representative of his feelings. His father and brother were present when he said: "I am all in and I am thinking of giving up the fight game."

"You can take it that I am serious. Look at my run of bad luck—three car accidents in training for three different fights. When I fought Tami Mautello in New York, I was knocked out because I was dazed from a crack on the head which I had received in a collision."

BROKEN JAW

"I got up from a sick bed to beat Stephenie Olett. Then the fight with Bakel. In the first round the American rushed across the ring and I ran into a punch which a schoolboy should have dodged and had a broken jaw."

"It cost me two spells in hospital with an injured eye as well. This last accident I cannot explain. I well know the bend in the road where my lorry skidded, I must have mistaken the footbrake for the accelerator. I cannot remember anything as I was unconscious for two days afterwards and semi-conscious for 18 hours. It will be months before I am right."

Mrs. Woodcock said: "I am not surprised to have been waiting to hear this for a long time and if he wants to give up boxing I am quite certain about it. I am pretty certain that the fight with Savold will not take place."

Woodcock was free to return home to-day. It was understood from the Doncaster infirmary, where he has been recovering.

It was stated at the hospital that Woodcock was making good progress. He will remain in this home for a few days under the care of his family doctor.—Reuter.

At Cheltenham: Gloucestershire 340 and 250 for 8 (T. Craven 70); Essex 140 (Cook 6 for 26).

At Manchester: Derbyshire 421 for 7 declared (Carr 72); Lancashire 320 for 7 (G. Edrich 80, Grieves 91).

At Portsmouth: Hampshire 305 and 103 for 3; Worcestershire 200 (Ainsworth 60).

At Leicester: Leicestershire 334 (Lester 55) and 33 for none; Warwickshire 346 for 5 declared (Gardner 71, Ord 71, Doherty 111).

At The Oval: Surrey 444 and 207 for 7 (Fishlock 53); Middlesex 175 (Denis Compton 86 not out, Surridge 6 for 49).

At Wellington: Northamptonshire 354 (Broderick 55); Yorkshire 391 for 7 (Hutton 221 not out, Lawson 55).

At Western: super - Mare: Somerset beat Glamorgan by 10 wickets. Somerset 325 and 34 for no wicket; Glamorgan 132 (Hazell 5 for 30) and 225 (Muncie 69, Lawrence 9 for 60).—Reuter.

KIWI V. NORTHANTS

Nottingham, Aug. 8.—Having declared 90 minutes before lunch after only half an hour's batting this morning, Nottinghamshire, with 328 runs on the board for the loss of four wickets, spent the rest of the day in the field while New Zealand ran up 329 for four.

Leaving their first two wickets for 65, New Zealand had some reason for care, but the spectators did not always appreciate the slow batting and began barracking. Rabone, in particular, came in for criticism after taking two and a quarter hours for his first 50.

The County were not blameless and their total took six and a half hours, only 20 runs being hit in the half hour today.

Hardstaff, who carried his bat for 123, had been at the wicket for nearly five hours hitting 17 fours. The fourth wicket stand with Harris (52) put on 181.

New Zealand were shaken when Scott was run out at 17 and seven runs later Mooney was dropped behind the wicket. He remained to take the score to 65, but was out just before lunch when he followed the big, slow stand—between Rabone and Reid.

Rabone was nearing the 40's when Reid came in, but the latter scored faster and overtook his partner in the 90's. When the total had reached 230 they had beaten the previous third wicket record by a New Zealand team in England, the 164 by T. C. Lowry and M. L. Page in 1927.

Both were scoring more freely now, particularly Reid, but when he was 155 after a stay of nearly three and a half hours, he was caught on the boundary. One six and 20 fours were included in his total, which had helped to put on 240.

Australian Bid For Empire Title

London, Aug. 8.—Eddie Miller, of Australia, is to claim the British championship if he beats Ronnie Clayton, the British and Empire Featherweight Champion, in their Empire title fight at Liverpool on Thursday.

Miller was born in Glasgow and went to Australia when he was 10 years of age. His manager, Mr. Sam Burns, said today that he had received an offer from the White City Stadium, South Africa, for Miller to defend the Empire title against Vic Towell in Johannesburg if he beats Clayton.

Mr. Burns, however, said that Miller was more concerned with claiming the British title, if he can get it.—Reuter.

Rabone lost Smith at the same total, but Wallace remained until stumps were drawn. Unbeaten with 120, Rabone has 50 far battled for five hours 40 minutes with only ten boundaries.

THE SCOREBOARD

The scoreboard at the end of the second day's play read: NOTTINGHAMSHIRE 1st innings 323 for 4 declared. NEW ZEALAND

1st Innings: Scott run out 11, Rabone not out 120, Mooney c Stokes b Harvey 21, Reid c Poole b Harris 155, Smith run out 9, Wallace not out 12, Extras 10. 329 for 4.

Victoria Club Callover

London, Aug. 8.—There was only a small attendance of members when the second official callover on the Doncaster St Leger was held at the Victoria Club here tonight.

No business resulted and prices generally were extended about most of the leading candidates.

Mr. William Woodward, an American-bred colt, Lone Eagle, retained his position as favourite, but his price has now lengthened from 3 to 1 to 11 to 2 against.

Other prices offered were: 8 to 1 Swallow Tail and Royal Forest, 17 to 2 Musidora and Royal Empire, 100 to 7 Amour Drake, 100 to 6 Unknown Quantity, Hindostan, Peter Flower, Val Drake and Barnes Park, 20 to 1 Vice Versa.—Reuter.

Lightning Kills Baseball Player

Urbana, Ohio, Aug. 7.—One baseball player was killed and nine others hurt today when a bolt of lightning flashed across the baseball diamond during a light rain. The flash killed first baseman Harold Jensen, of Urbana, while three other players admitted to Champlin county hospital were reported in good condition.

Four other members of the squad and two umpires were knocked down but recovered after treatment at the scene. Members of the opposing Troy team escaped injury.—United Press.

He is likely to lose his title, however, if Neil Franklin, England's centre-half, is transferred from Stoke City. He has requested a transfer, but Stoke refuse and at present there is a deadlock similar to that with Will Mannion, the Middlebrough and England inside forward, last season.

Franklin, who still declines to re-sign for the next season, has asked the Stoke Directors to reconsider their decision to refuse his request for a transfer.

Franklin, who has stated that he wants a change of club because of his wife's health, has offered to supply medical opinion.

SOCCER STARS GET READY

With the temperature in the 80s, Crystal Palace Football Club players report for training at Selhurst Park, London.

ENGLISH SOCCER SEASON

STARTS ON AUGUST 20TH

All Set For The Big Football Kick-off

London, Aug. 8.—English soccer players have started work once again and are in full training for the big football kick-off on Saturday, August 20.

For the opening weeks of the season, eyes will be turned to the clubs who have signed well-known and expensive players during the close season. Perhaps the most interesting will be to see how Bryn Jones, the Arsenal and Welsh International inside-forward, fares with Norwich City, the Division III South Section club.

Jones has moved to Norwich City as player-coach and his experience should prove valuable to his new club.

Tom Whittaker, the Arsenal manager, said that Jones was going to a "job with prospects—a stepping stone to something in football."

Jones is a player on whom a huge transfer fee undoubtedly had a worrying effect. Arsenal staggered the football world in 1938 by paying £14,000 to Wolverhampton Wanderers for Jones, easily the record fee until the post-war spending boom dwarfed even that sum.

Jones, who is naturally of a quiet disposition, never quite reached with his new club the heights of his Wolverhampton days. Nevertheless, he continued to play many fine games for both Arsenal and his country, and he remains one of the most skilled and constructive players in the game.

He is in support of his transfer request.

HULL CITY WANT NEIL FRANKLIN

Hull City, who gained promotion into the Second Division last season, are reported to be prepared to pay Stoke City £30,000 for Franklin, but Mr. Robert McGregor, the Stoke manager, stated: "Hull have been told of our Directors' decision not to transfer Franklin whatever amount is offered."

If both parties are determined, it looks as if Stoke will begin the season without the English International. Under the rules affecting players, re-signed, Franklin has been unable to train at Stoke's ground, but he has made alternative arrangements to train on another ground in the Potteries.—Reuter.

KBGC TEAMS

The following have been selected to represent the KBGC in their league matches on Saturday.

Mulloy Triumphs

South Orange, N.J., Aug. 7.—Stout-hearted Gardner Mulloy came from behind to defeat Art Larsen 6-7, 1-0, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2 to-day to win the coveted Eastern Association court tennis title.

Mulloy, who gained the finals by dumping top-seeded Billy Talbot yesterday, couldn't stop Larsen's left-handed stroking in the first two sets, but finally found his game in the third to chase Larsen off the court by powerful service and sound ground strokes.

In the women's finals, Doris Hart defeated Shirley Fry.—United Press.

New Rule For Archers

Paris, Aug. 8.—The Congress of the International Archery Federation today postponed until Friday its decision on requests for admission from Spain, Portugal and South Africa.

The Congress decided to bar the use of a knot for sighting in the centre of the bowstring. A mark on the string not more than one centimetre long may be used.—Reuter.

ON THE RECORD

The First Asian Games

Though this part of the world has known the Far Eastern Olympic Games, held for the last time in 1934, and India has occasionally organised international competitions with the participation of Ceylon and Afghanistan, the All-Asian Games, on the lines of the Olympic Games, are only to have their debut early next year at New Delhi.

The strongest athletic nation in Asia is an uncertain starter. Korea and India are in favour of Japan's competing in the Asian Games. It all depends now on General MacArthur and on no veto coming in from the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

However, the Japanese are not the power that they once were in athletics as the official list of the world's best athletic performances for last year, issued by the official magazine of the American National A.U., shows.

Turkey and Korea lead the international field with Ceylon, China, India and the Philippines showing up occasional top men. The Philippines are going through their leanest athletic years. Ceylon, spurred on by the brilliant success of Duncan White in the Olympic Games, is likely to show its most outstanding athletes in the next few years.

Complete summaries of the Olympic Games at London last year, only lately made available, show that there were medals presented for sports from the various continents, the awards for Asia would have gone as follows:

100 Metres Dash—E.L.R. Phillips, India 11 seconds.
200 Metres Dash—M. Sharif, Pakistan, 22.8 seconds.
400 Metres Dash—Chen-Ying-lone, China, 59.0 seconds.
800 Metres Run—R. Ishman, Turkey, 2 mins. 01.1 secs.
1,500 Metres Run—C. Onel, Turkey.
3,000 Metres Run—Lou Weng-nai, China.
10,000 Metres Run—Lou Weng-nai, China.
20,000 Metres Run—Lou Weng-nai, China.
30,000 Metres Steeplechase—C. Onel, Turkey, 9 mins. 28.4 secs.
10,000 Metres Walk—S. S. Singha, India.
110 Metres High Hurdles—J. H. Vickers, India, 4.7 seconds.
400 Metres Low Hurdles—Duncan White, Ceylon, 61.8 seconds.
High Jump—S. G. S. S. Gurann, India and Lloy Valtberg, Singapore, 6 feet 11 1/2 inches.
Long Jump—Baldev Singh, India.
Hop, Step & Jump—Rudi Sarinip, Turkey.
Discus Throw—In Kang Whan, Korea.
Javelin Throw—H. Ziranman, Turkey.
Hammer Throw—In Kang Whan, Korea, 100 feet 9 inches.

Where times and distances are not given in this list, it is because the official Olympic summary does not give them.

There were no Asian competitors in only one event—the Pole Vault. An Indian athlete, Baldev Singh, started in the Decathlon but had to give it up towards the end as it interfered with the start of the Marathon, for which he also had entered.

Scoring on the European basis for the Asian Games within the London Olympics, i.e. five points for first place and down to one for fifth place, we have the following interesting result:

Turkey, 63 points; Korea, 39; India, 31 1/2; Pakistan, 31; China, 18; Ceylon, 17; Philippines, 5; Singapore, 4 1/2; Iraq, 2; and Burma, 1.

It must be remembered that China and the Philippines sent very small teams, the latter being represented by just one sprinter.

China did not send to the Games the best shot putter in Asia and the best shot putter in the Philippines, the best high jumper, the best shot putter, the best 100 yards runner, the best 200 yards BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

At one time I had a radio programme entitled, "Everybody Plays Bridge," and that is literally true. You will notice that the names in my column, are from all walks of life, and I have never found one of them who was not an enthusiastic about the game as an expert. However, I never could understand why people throw up their hands in horror, and say, "Oh, I'd be scared to play with one of those experts." I find that most people who play bridge are expert if they just take a little time to study the hand.

Today's hand came from Clyde Palmer, of New York City, who says it came up in an ordinary bridge game with his friends. He thought I might find it interesting, and I think you will too.

In my opinion they bid the hand well, and even though they made seven, I do not think they should be in seven. Palmer was confronted with a problem on the opening lead. Should he play the spade suit to split 3-3, or should he assume that he had led away from something? Generally you do not lead a low card unless you are leading from an honour. Even if he lost the first trick, Mr. Palmer still could discard his two losing clubs on the ace and king of spades.

He played low from dummy on the first trick and over to dummy's nine of hearts, cashed the ace and king of spades, and discarded the two losing clubs. When everybody followed, all he had to do was to pick up the trumps, go over to the king of diamonds, and in his own hand-on-dummy's good spades.

All the Tools Had a Party

—And Christopher Cricket Watched Them—

By MAX TRELL

"LAST night," said Christopher Cricket to Knarf and Hanid, the Shadows, "after everyone was fast asleep I saw a light in the tool-house. And when I looked in through a crack in the door, there were all the tools having a party!"

"A party?" exclaimed Hanid. "A real party?"

"A real tool party!" said Christopher Cricket. "The hammer and the screwdrivers and the chisels had jumped down from the shelf. The saws and the pliers had come off their pegs. The drills and the levels had opened their boxes. The nails and the screws and the hooks and the nuts and the bolts had all come out of their glass jars. And there they were, all sitting and standing on a big wooden horse around the work table."

"Puzzled Voice

"A wooden horse?" said Knarf in a puzzled voice. "What was a wooden horse doing in the tool-house?"

"It was the wooden horse that Father used to ride on," replied Christopher Cricket. "And what do you suppose was in the middle of the work table? It was a big cake made out of saw-dust flavoured with bark and filled with pieces of tin and iron."

Knarf and Hanid were amazed to hear the tools' party-cake was made of. But then

RADIO WAVES TRACE LOST PERSONS

By RENE BALBAUD

JULES CALTE, a Paris radio diver, and an inventor, Andre Contrieux, claim, they have perfected a process for discovering metals and even lost persons with the help of mysterious "radio waves."

Using Calte's diving properties, which are "controlled" by a kind of Geiger counter invented by Contrieux, the pair claim to have helped Paris police discover a body last March.

The police, they said, had given up all hope after a vain search of two months, but the team, using the machine which works by short waves, found the body without any trouble. "Every metal and every person, living or dead, sends out short waves of different lengths," Contrieux said. "Personal wave lengths are as individual as fingerprints. The only problem is to know how to receive them. We have not solved this problem," he said.

Contrieux said the pair worked together to find water and metals, rather than bodies.

How It Works

"Here is how we work," he said. "We limit the range of our search through the efforts of Calte, using a ring or a watch. Then, with my electric counter, which has an antenna machine keyed to the waves, I interrupt the low hum which shows the presence of the object. Each metal, gold, silver, copper, must have a special wave length."

He said he thought once he had struck gold, but on digging, found a body with gold teeth.

In looking for water, he said, the low buzz was interrupted by a zzzee sound like a mosquito if there was water, and a whistling sound if he was near a cave without water.

Contrieux said his process was very similar to radar.

"Eventually I hope to develop it for diagnosing disease," he said. "We surely can invent machines keyed to the waves of microbes or cancerous cells, for example."

Tricky Safe Invented

Calte and Contrieux already have invented a practical application of "personalised waves."

They have constructed a safe which opens automatically by a counter device when the owner approaches it. The owner wears a "sensing apparatus" which is keyed to his own personal wave length, and nobody else can open the safe.

And if the person dies? "One would have to blow the safe up," Contrieux said. — United Press.

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

TUESDAY, AUGUST 9

BORN today, you are practical and keen when it comes to solving problems and working out your own destiny. The stars have given you an abundance of talent and you should know how to make the best use of it. If you fail to make a life success of your life—don't blame fate, you will have only yourself to blame. Never be disappointed if fame appears to be slow in coming for once it arrives it will be lasting and most likely it will long outlive your own contemporary scene.

You are able to discriminate between a good thing and one which is faulty in premise. You are adaptable to varying conditions and can fit into any job, expanding it as you go along. If you care intensely about the weather you will be interested in the ideas of an American electrical engineer. He thinks that a satellite rocket, "whirling perpetually round and round the earth," could televise the earth's surface, and so lead to more accurate weather forecasts.

He prefers the Strabismus method of fastening rocket-propelled balloons to a ballroom platform anchored in the stratosphere. The friction of the earth's revolutions would set up electrical waves, and these waves would be registered by the balloon. In such a way that coming weather could be deduced from the isothermic constant. It is as simple as falling off a heap of marine-glue.

Chateau Salford

BY the time the State Public House with its State beer is established, it will be the moment for the State to take over and boost the delicious English Claret and Burgundies, and thus put an end to the so-called French wines, in which France is the only producer.

Encouraged by recent box office successes in America with "Hallelujah," "The Red Shoes," and "Quartet," British producers are following up with half a dozen more recent productions which they hope will further establish British films with American audiences.

"Among the new films will be 'Madness of the Heart,' starring Margaret Lockwood, 'Admission,' with Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger, 'Obsession,' an acid bath murder-film, and 'Trotter True,' a technical musical with a Jean Kent, who is travelling to New York in the liner Mauretania, expects to remain in the United States for about four weeks.—Reuter.

US Warned Not To Start "Trade War"

Madras, Aug. 8.—Mr. C. R. Srinivasan, President of All-India Newspaper Editors, today warned the United States against precipitating a "trade war."

The United States, he said, should revise her trade policy.

Mr. Srinivasan, who has just returned from a tour of Britain and the Continent, said that he found a "psychological depression" in Britain.—Reuter.

Rank's Drive To Earn More Dollars

Reds Claim Progress In Shanghai

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—The Communist New China News Agency reported tonight in Peking broadcast picked up here that headway was being made by Shanghai workers of publicly-owned and private enterprises in the building up of a "new people's Shanghai, economically independent of imperialism."

Public enterprises, the Agency said, had devised substitutes for machine parts and other goods which formerly had to be imported. For instance, charcoal gas was being used to replace petrol.

A "new Shanghai" conference, the Agency reported, the 600 delegates who attended dealt with such suggestions as the restoration of industries, the promotion of Sino-Soviet trade and the "evacuation of the Shanghai population to the countryside for productive work."—Reuter.

Big Marshall Aid Advance To France

Paris, Aug. 8.—The Economic Co-operation Administration has agreed to advance to the French Government 30 milliard francs (about $27,400,000) of the Marshall Aid counter-part funds, the French Finance Ministry announced today.

The counter-part funds are derived from the sale by the French Government of Marshall Aid goods and are released from time to time by agreement between France and the United States to finance French reconstruction projects.

The object of the advance is to prevent a holdup in financing French reconstruction at a time of the year when Treasury receipts undergo a seasonal fall.

It will be used to maintain the present rate of reconstruction in coal mines, electricity plants and other industrial projects.

Part of the counter-part funds will be used to cover the operating deficit on the French nationalised railways, a United States Embassy official said.—Reuter.

FEAR OF WAR HAS NOW DECREASED

TRYGVE LIE PRESENTS HIS ANNUAL REPORT

Lake Success, Aug. 8.—The fear of war has decreased mainly as a result of the breaking of the Berlin deadlock, Mr Trygve Lie, the Secretary-General of the United Nations, said in his annual report published today.

He described the year ended June 30, 1949, as "on the whole a year of progress towards a more peaceful world."

"It is true that the world has had its full share of crises and alarms," Mr Lie said. "The rival claims in an ideological conflict have been pressed as though they were the only issue of our times. The Great Powers have continued their efforts to strengthen their relative positions before the situation is brought nearer to stability by the conclusion of peace treaties."

"Although overshadowed by the Great Power differences, movements of national independence and social upheavals in many parts of the world have undoubtedly contributed to international tension."

"These conditions, which have existed since the war ended, continue to cause widespread anxiety among the people of the world. Because of the Great Power differences, no progress has been made during the year towards providing the Security Council with armed forces to enable it to take enforcement action, and there has been little agreement on the control of atomic energy, of other weapons of mass destruction, and of conventional armaments."

MORAL FORCE

When the three great Powers brought the Berlin question to the Security Council last September in a complaint against a fourth, many people feared that this crisis would break up the United Nations and even lead to a new world war.

Instead, he said, moderating and conciliating forces were set in motion immediately, and in the end the result was the resumption of great Power negotiations on the peace treaties.

Mr Lie accused the great Powers of continuing "their efforts to strengthen their relative positions before the situation is brought nearer stability by the conclusion of peace treaties."

Mr Lie said that the moral force of the United Nations and its power of persuasion towards reasonable compromise and peaceful settlement had achieved peace in Palestine, Kashmir and Indonesia.

BIRTH OF ISRAEL

"The establishment of the State of Israel in Palestine without a major war is one of the epic events of history. When India and Pakistan agreed to a United Nations cease-fire in the State of Kashmir, the 400,000,000 people of these two great countries were spared the worst of all disasters—religious and communal warfare."

"In Indonesia, the United Nations has played a decisive part in the efforts to secure a peaceful settlement and a peaceful transition to national independence of 70,000,000 people."

The Secretary-General said that the "days of dependency or inferior status" had come to an end in Asia.

India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon, all formerly dependent parts of the British Empire, had achieved independence by a peaceful transition since the United Nations was founded. Asian peoples were "the inheritors of some of the world's greatest cultures," Mr Lie said. They are building their own new worlds on the foundations of the old.

NEW MEMBERS

"Their influence in the affairs of the United Nations is growing. Given time, and the necessary development of their economic resources, their influence will be more nearly commensurate with their population than it is today."

Mr Lie said that Israel "has now become the 59th member of the Organisation. The applications of four more countries of Asia—the Mongolian People's Republic, Ceylon, Nepal and Korea—are pending. Indonesia may be expected to apply after the existing difficulties there are settled."

In Africa, the movement forward was slower, Mr Lie added. There, the international trusteeship system could play an especially important role. United Nations supervision of trust territories would "be felt throughout the much wider area of non-self-governing territories."

Mr Lie said that the United Nations had "contributed to the progress towards a more peaceful world by preventing or ending wars involving 500,000,000 people."

WITHIN BOUNDS

"The record of the past 12 months has clearly confirmed the wisdom of the San Francisco concept," Mr Lie continued. "The United Nations has not been able to resolve great Power differences, but the conflict has been kept within peaceful bounds and the way prepared for further progress towards a settlement."

Turning from settling wars and disputes to the other phases of the United Nations' work, the Secretary-General said it "has developed international co-operation in almost every field of human activity on a scale never before attempted."

"It has proclaimed the first universal Declaration of Human Rights in history," he continued. "The convention of the prevention and punishment of the crime of genocide has been unanimously approved and member States have been asked to sign and ratify it."

"In spite of all the political and ideological differences, the United Nations is developing an economic and social programme aimed at raising the standards of living of the community of nations for the welfare of each of its members."

EFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE

"Through United Nations procedures of regional economic co-operation, effective assistance is being given to the countries of Europe, Latin America, Asia and the Far East towards the reconstruction and development of their economies."

"Through the planning and execution of comprehensive economic and social fields, the providing of fellowships, the sending of missions and advisers, the organisation of regional seminars, the United Nations has begun to make an effective contribution to placing the knowledge of the more advanced nations at the disposal of the less advanced."

Mr Lie described as "one of the most heartening events of the year the impetus resulting from the United States initiative in sponsoring an expanded programme of technical assistance for the economic development of the under-developed areas of the world."

APPEAL FOR SUPPORT

Appealing for increased support from member governments, Mr Lie said the degree of security attained in the world would be in proportion to the nations' support for the Organisation.

Mr Lie commended the member nations and the peoples of the world to study the detailed report of the year's activities, which he described as "a record of achievement in the prevention of war and in the steady construction of the foundations of a more peaceful and prosperous world."

SUEZ CANAL AGREEMENT

Cairo, Aug. 8.—The Egyptian Chamber of Deputies tonight approved the Suez Canal agreement which was signed last March, under which the Egyptian Government becomes a "privileged partner" in the Suez Canal Company.

The Egyptian Senate gave its approval a fortnight ago after considerable opposition. The Suez Canal Company is French-controlled, with the British Government holding 44 percent of the shares.—Reuter.

Australian Miners Told To End Farce

Sydney, Aug. 8.—Mr R. A. King, Secretary of the New South Wales Trades and Labour Council, declared in a broadcast tonight that "the overwhelming majority of miners demand a return to work."

"Miners, end this farce," he added. "Take the initiative, cease being Moscow footmen."

DELEGATES ARRIVE AT THE HAGUE

The Hague, Aug. 8.—The first of the delegates from Indonesia who will attend a round-table conference here for a permanent Dutch-Indonesian settlement arrived today.

They included Dr Mohammed Roem, who was chairman of the Republican delegation at the recent conference in Batavia, Dr J. Van Royen, chief Dutch negotiator, Mr H. Merle Cochran, American member of the United Nations Commission for Indonesia, and Mr A. J. Vleer, secretary of the Federalists' delegation.

On his arrival here, Dr Roem spoke about the difficulties facing the conference. He said that the Indonesian side had shown that the road to freedom was strewn with obstacles. But the preliminary conference in Batavia had produced good results, so there were grounds for hoping for success.

Dr Van Royen said he was confident of reaching a final agreement.—Reuter.

HATTA SEES NEHRU
New Delhi, Aug. 8.—Dr Mohammed Hatta, the Indonesian Prime Minister, had two private meetings with the Indian Prime Minister, Pandit Nehru, today during a 36-hour break in his journey to The Hague.

Tomorrow morning he is to meet Pandit Nehru again, together with Sir Girja Shankar Dajpal, Secretary-General of the Indian Ministry of External Affairs, before resuming his journey.

Before conferring with Pandit Nehru, Dr Hatta laid a wreath on the platform where Mahatma Gandhi was cremated.—Reuter.

SAN FRANCISCO FEELS SHOCK

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—A wide area around San Francisco Bay was shaken by an earthquake today. The tremor hit the area before dawn, causing some alarm but doing no damage, although it was strong enough to rattle doors and windows and create a clatter among pots and pans.—Reuter.

POPULATION INCREASE

London, Aug. 8.—Lord Boyd Orr said today that at the present rate of increase there would be 3,000,000,000 people on Earth in 1989.

The former director general of the International Food and Agricultural Organisation said he doubted that Earth could continue to feed the increasing population unless steps were taken to double world food production. If preventive medicine were applied to elimination of disease in Asia, Africa and Latin America, he continued, the rate of population increase would run much faster than the current 22,000,000 per year.

He added that life expectancy at birth in those three continents was now only 30-40 years, compared with 60-70 years in Western Europe, North America and the British Commonwealth.—United Press.

NO COMMENT FROM CHIANG

Taipei, Aug. 8.—Questioned about Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's reaction to the United States White Paper on China, a spokesman of the Generalissimo's party which has just returned from the Korean meeting with President Syngman Rhee said that the Generalissimo had made "no comment."

Observers believe that the Generalissimo will not make any comment on the White Paper. They believe he will devote his full energy to organising an anti-Communist bloc inside and outside China until the Communists are defeated.—Reuter.

American Service Chiefs Go Home

Vienna, Aug. 8.—The American Joint Chiefs of Staff said today that their talks with military leaders during their ten-day tour of Atlantic Pact nations had convinced them that organisational differences were so small that it "might not take long" to make the pact a going concern.

General Omar Bradley of the U.S. Army, acting as spokesman for the Joint Chiefs, was asked at a press conference here why he considered the talks "successful."

"Principally," he answered, "because they showed that all people think along the same general lines, perhaps not on details, but thinking along the same general lines on military organisation. There don't seem to be enough differences in general on setting up a general military organisation to cause people to think the same way."

"There should not be too much trouble, I hope it will not take too long."

General Bradley, Admiral Louis Denfeld, and Air Force General Hoyt Vandenberg met briefly this morning with the U.S. commander in Austria, General Geoffrey Keyes, and his staff to review the United States Army's position in Austria as an occupying power.

Later today, the three Chiefs leave for Washington to report on their ten-day series of conferences with the military leaders of the Atlantic Pact nations.—United Press.

LEAVE BY PLANE

Vienna, Aug. 8.—The American Joint Chiefs of Staff left by plane for Washington today.

They travelled the 20 miles through Russia occupied territory to the Tullin air base in General Geoffrey Keyes' private train. They are expected to arrive in Washington on Tuesday morning.

They will stop for refuelling at Shannon, Ireland, and Gander, Newfoundland.—Associated Press.

Will Co-operate Like Brothers

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—Hu Yu-chih, described as an expert on international affairs, said in a Communist Peiping Radio broadcast tonight that when a "democratic Government" was established in China, the "two great nations, China and the Soviet Union, will surely co-operate like two brothers."

He also said: "Imperialists hope that the Chinese peoples will stand apart from the Soviet Union, but we must learn to co-operate like brothers. Mao Tse-tung said, and stand on the side of peace and the democratic camp of the world headed by the Soviet Union."

"The 675,000,000 Chinese and Soviet peoples, plus the millions in the oppressed countries of the Pacific, are more than a match for imperialists. If the imperialists dare launch an adventurous aggression they will reap what they sow like the Japanese aggressors did."—Reuter.

Berlin Swelters

Berlin, Aug. 8.—Berlin had its highest temperature of this year today—95 degrees Fahrenheit. This is also the highest temperature for six years.

The heat wave followed a cool period of some weeks.—Reuter.

Philippine Constabulary Anniversary

Manila, Aug. 8.—The Philippine Constabulary, which began to operate in 1901, during the tumultuous days following the implementation of United States sovereignty in the islands, today observed its 48th birthday anniversary with speeches and parades at Camp Crame, northeast of Manila.

The occasion was observed amidst the roar of artillery and the crack of small arms fire as battle-tested Constabulary men continued their grim task in central Luzon and elsewhere for the preservation of peace and order in this country.

Organised as a national police force during the early part of the American occupation of the Constabulary, then as now, has been pitting its brains and its arms against the forces of dissidence, banditry and lawlessness.

It has been in continuous active service for half a century except during the three years of occupation of the Philippines by the Japanese during the war.—Reuter.
